Mass Spectrometry-based Proteomics Workshop

May 9-10, Beadle Center

Monday May 9, 8:30 am to 12:30 pm
Symposium: Understanding key insights into the composition, regulation and function of molecular complexes and signaling pathways using mass spectrometry.

- Free registration; breakfast is provided to all registered attendees.

Speakers:

- ⇒ Mike Washburn, Director, Proteomics Center, Stowers Institute & Professor, Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine, University of Kansas Medical Center.
- ⇒ Mary Lipton, Senior Research Scientist, Environmental Molecular Sciences Laboratory, Pacific Northwest National Laboratory.
- ⇒ Dmitri Nusinow, Assistant Member, Donald Danforth Plant Science Center.
- ⇒ Hanno Steen, Director, Proteomics Center, Boston Children's Hospital & Associate Professor, Department of Pathology, Harvard Medical School

Monday May 9, 12:30—5:00 pm and Tuesday May 10, 8:30 am—3:30 pm
Hands-on session: Protein identification by in-gel digestion and liquid chromatography-mass spectrometry (includes lab session and lectures).

- Limited to 50 participants.
- Registration fee required; lunches are provided to all paid-registered attendees.
